

PRODUCT OF OLD YALE

Football and Athletics Result in Creating Gentle-men

Notice was recently served on the Yale faculty concerning the actions of some of the undergraduates of the university at the Hyperion theater. The product was "Winsome Winnie." The freshmen packed the upper gallery. When the curtain went up they threw down a couple of bushels of confetti on the stage, and part of it fell on the people in the pit. Several times the Yale boys yelled and shouted so that the actors had to retire. Pennies were thrown at the girls as they came on the stage, and they had to dodge to avoid being struck. Rolls of ribbon as large as a cabbage were hurled at the star performers. When the performance was half over an indignation meeting was held in the lobby by prominent citizens, and several of the more disgruntled ones were in favor of taking matters in their own hands and of throwing some of the Yale men over the railing. There were a half dozen lawyers in the party, who said that if someone would arrest the ringleader they would prosecute the case. The play was finally curtailed because of the antics of the Yale men. The theater officials have warned the Yale men that wholesale arrests will be made at the next performance that is interrupted.

Chinks' Good Money. It is good fortune that has fallen to the portion of the three Chinamen who hold a lease on the S. L. Lilly hop yard. Two seasons of fine prices have made them rich enough to live on the fat of the land should they return to the Flowery Kingdom. In China, as well as in some other countries, the length of a man's purse is the mark of his importance, and thus measured, the Chinese hop kings would be lords among their lowly countrymen of the Orient.

It was three years ago that the Chinamen took a lease for five years on the Lilly yard. The yard comprises 40 acres, and is perhaps as good a yard as far as soil conditions are concerned, as there is in Oregon. The soil is strong and finely adapted to hop production, and the hop product is always of the finest quality, and a sure winner of top prices.

Hops were not bad the first year after the lease was taken, going at 12 to 14 cents, and bringing the almost-eyed lessees a fair remuneration for their labor and enterprise. But it was the next season that brought them returns, such as rarely come to Chinamen. After the hops had all been gathered and baled, more than 60,000 pounds were available for market. They brought something like 22 cents per pound, and the three operators, after paying rent, picking and all other expenses, had a clean $10,000 in gold for their joint profit. They were so pleased with the outcome that they showered gift after gift on the man from whom they had leased the yard at only a fair fee, the aggregate passing in value into dollars by the hundreds. Then some of the lucky hop growers celebrated their good fortune with a trip across the Pacific and a visit to the old home and its strange domestic relations in the Celestial fatherland.

This season was almost as good as was that of last year for the hop kings. Their crop was great, save that three or four acres were destroyed by mold, and the hops thereon left unpicked. In spite of this, however, more than 50,000 pounds were picked and sold, doesn't come by accident. A fertile soil and careful cultivation are necessary to produce the towering stems and heavy ears.

Yet the farmer who understands that he can't have a healthy corn crop without feeding and weeding, seems to think that he can have a healthy body without either care or culture. But the body is built up just as the corn is, by the assimilation of the several chemical elements on which vitality depends. And what weeds are to the corn, diseases of the stomach and nutritive systems are to the body; they divert the necessary food supply from the proper channels, and the body becomes lean, sickly and ill-nourished.

The proper digestion and assimilation of food is a primary essential of health. By heating diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery increases the digestive and assimilative powers, stimulates the action of the blood-making glands, and sends to every organ of the body the rich red corpuscles of blood on which physical vigor and vitality depend.

"I took two bottles of Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, for stomach trouble," writes Clarence Carney, Esq., of Taylorstown, London, Co., Va. "I did not take any more. I can eat most anything now. I am so well pleased with it I hardly know how to thank you for your kind information. I tried a whole lot of things before I wrote to you. There was a gentleman told me about your medicine, how it had cured his wife. I thought I would try a bottle of it. Am now glad that I did. I don't know what I would have done if it had not been for Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery."

and they went to the buyer at 23 cents, with a bonus of $50 to make the bargain good. The net profit of the yellow kings, after every expense was paid, was more than $8,000 in bright, shiny twenty-dollar gold pieces. The net earnings for the three in two years has been nearly $19,000—more than most men amass in a lifetime of toil and trouble.—Corvallis Times.

Climatic Cures.

The influence of climatic conditions in the cure of consumption is very much overdrawn. The poor patient, and the rich patient, too, can do much better at home by proper attention to food digestion, and a regular course of German Syrup. Free expectoration in the morning is made certain by German Syrup, so is a good night's rest and the absence of that weakening cough and debilitating night sweat. Restless nights and the exhaustion due to coughing, the greatest danger and dread of the consumptive, can be prevented or stopped by taking German Syrup liberally and regularly. Should you be able to go to a warmer clime you will find that of the thousands of consumptives there, the few who are benefited and regain strength are those who use German Syrup. Trial bottle, 25c; regular size, 75c. At all druggists. At Dr. Stone's drug stores.

Proper Husband!

Returning voyagers from England bring back this story, told by H. Clay Evans, consul-general at London: An American from Buffalo went abroad. He visited Paris and afterward fell on London, where he boasted of his knowledge of Parisian customs, meals, wines, pictures and everything else the traveler sees and gets.

"Of course," said Evans, "you enjoyed some pommes de terre in Paris?"

"Not at all—not at all," replied the man from Buffalo. "My wife is traveling with me."—New York Sun.

A London eating house is to be opened near the bank, at which the waitresses will be octopuses of the genuine chocolate cream tint, specially imported from the Southern states.
